

Every once in a while, I like to record a show on TV, especially when my schedule prevents me from watching the program when it is broadcast. If the "broadcast flag" is approved, then companies like Viacom will determine whether or not I am allowed to continue my practice of selective recording of broadcast material for private (personal) viewing at a later date. I believe this infringes on my rights, and that it should not be allowed.